

Social Security Disability

- You may be eligible if you are over 18 years of age but not at full retirement age, you have worked 5 of the last 10 years preceding the disability and you are unable, due to medical reasons, to hold any substantial, gainful employment for at least a 12-month continuous period.
- Benefits include a monthly payment equal to the amount you would receive if you had already reached your full retirement age. If approved, you may be eligible for Medicare. SSD can be supplied on either a temporary or permanent basis.
- FOA will streamline the filing process as most people are denied when filing on their own. FOA will provide legal representation at hearings.

Personal Injury

- If you are injured in an accident as a result of someone else's carelessness (other than an employer or fellow employee), you may have the right to seek monetary damages for injuries resulting from that accident. The injury does not have to be work-related.
- PI is an injury to the mind, body, or emotions as opposed to an injury to property.
- FOA will help file a claim if you experienced an injury due to any of the following: road traffic accident, slip and fall, product liability, assault, and more.
